

Guide to Volunteering at Citizens Advice

Our Service

The CA Service is independent and provides free, confidential and impartial advice to everybody regardless of race, sex, disability, sexuality or nationality. It is the largest advice-giving network in the UK, with over 3,000 outlets and 20,000 volunteers. We help people deal with nearly six million problems every year face-to-face, by phone and email, at our offices, at outreach sessions in places like GP surgeries and courts – even in people's homes. Our clients and volunteers come from all walks of life. We are committed to providing an independent advice service, and volunteering opportunities, to the whole community.

The CA Service is based on four principles

- Independent – We will always act in the interests of our clients, without influence from any outside bodies
- Impartial – We don't judge our clients or make assumptions about them. Our service is open to everyone, and we treat everyone equally
- Confidential – We won't pass on anything a client tells us – or even the fact that they've visited us – without their permission
- Free – No-one has to pay for our traditional service but we do offer some additional services that we charge for. For example we now deliver some immigration work that we previously would have referred to a solicitor.

Putting these principles into action enables us to provide a vital service to the millions of people who turn to us for help each year.

Campaign for changes in policies and services

The Citizens Advice service makes a record of every enquiry brought to them. This adds up to a huge wealth of information about the problems people experience. We work proactively to prevent similar problems happening to others. We use this evidence to highlight the effects that policies have on real people in the real world, and to suggest where improvements can be made to the policies and services of national and local government and businesses. We aim to stop problems at source, using the direct experience of the communities that we serve.

Why volunteer for us?

Above all, it's a chance to make a real difference. By volunteering for us you'll be playing an active part in improving people's lives and influencing the development of national and local policies and services.

We value our volunteers – we could not provide our service without those who generously give their time to help others. We recognise that volunteers want to grow and develop their role with us. Following completion of our initial training, we encourage ongoing development which may include work with some of our specialist teams.

Some roles are more flexible than others. We'll do our best to find a role for you that fits in with your interests, and we'll be as flexible as possible in enabling you to volunteer at the times that suit you best. Full training and support is provided to equip you with the competencies and confidence needed to become part of our team. We also pay travel expenses.

My name is John, I'm well into my 60s and for most of my working life I've been in the building trade. After a few years of doing very little after retirement I wanted to do something worthwhile. I'd already heard about the CA service but it was whilst accompanying a friend to the service that I decided to find out more about volunteering. I attended an information morning where I found out more about the roles available. I opted for the gateway assessor role and do a couple of days a week. The induction and training sessions were comprehensive and never boring.

I'm part of a great team and have made many new friends during my time here. I can't stress how enjoyable and rewarding volunteering here can be. It is beneficial for the volunteers, the service and of course for those needing our help for so many different reasons. I hope that this will encourage some of you to consider joining us as volunteers. It's certainly opened my eyes and made my otherwise empty days very enjoyable and fulfilling.

I'm Hannah and I decided to volunteer at Citizens Advice to gain work experience as I am currently in the second year of my law degree. I thought that it would help me to put my learning into practice as well as it looking good on my CV for future employers. However, I've got so much more out of my volunteer work. I find it so rewarding knowing that I am helping people who don't know what to do or how to solve their problems. The work is so varied that it widens your knowledge and I've found that it compliments my university work by putting it into perspective. Everyone within the organisation is friendly and you're learning every day. I would strongly recommend volunteering at Citizens Advice for any student – especially those studying law – as it looks good on your CV, is incredibly rewarding and has confirmed to me that helping others or advice work is definitely something that I want to do as a future career.
